

A pledge for a better Europe

TOMORROW I WILL...

...Let go of decision-making power to enable all actors regardless of their formal powers, to integrate their needs in final solutions.

...Expect the unexpected by keeping an open mind to new suggestions, and be adaptable to fast changing environments and open to change.

...Take the problems and realities of the people affected by our future policies into serious consideration when designing them.

...Communicate the power and value of co-creation and continuously include it in our workflow.

...Question at least one work routine or a formalised process, redesign it, try it and learn from it.

...Engage with existing and new ecosystems when designing public services and new solutions across sectors and levels - from local to national to global.
